Federal Government Adjusts COVID-19 Entry Strategy for International Air Passengers

As the COVID-19 pandemic continues, the United States Government (USG) is innovating and taking a new approach to help keep international air passengers healthy. The new, more effective strategy focuses on the continuum of travel and the individual passenger, including pre-departure and post-arrival education, efforts to develop a potential testing framework with international partners, and illness response. This strategy is consistent with the current phase of the pandemic and more effectively protects the health of the American public.

Beginning September 14, 2020, the USG will remove requirements for directing all flights carrying airline passengers arriving from, or recently had a presence in, certain countries to land at one of 15 designated airports and halt enhanced entry health screening for these passengers. Currently, enhanced entry health

“As schools reopen for in-person and on-line, it is imperative we adjust to meet the unique needs and circumstances of our communities. These funds will provide essential resources to help mitigate the impact of on-line learning and provide necessary protection in keeping all students safe. Additionally, these grant funds will help provide vital services to ensure a safe and productive school year for everyone,” said U.S. Attorney Overbey.

“With the new school year underway, the safety of our nation’s students remains paramount,” said COPS Office Director Phil Keith. “Although this school year may look different at the start, now is the ideal time to make preparations to enhance school safety for when all of our children are back in the classroom.”

The Students, Teachers, and Officers Preventing School Violence Act of 2018 (STOP School Violence Act of 2018) gave the COPS Office authority to provide awards directly to states, units of local government, Indian tribes, and public agencies (such as school districts and law enforcement agencies) to improve security at schools and on school grounds in the jurisdiction of the grantee through evidence-based school safety programs. The three awards announced today can be used for coordination with law enforcement; training for local law enforcement officers to prevent student violence; metal detectors,

Cheryl Ballard, 39, Chism Trail Dandridge, was charged with Domestic Assault. Deputy Eric Curtis LCSO, was notified of an individual wanting to make a stolen vehicle report at the Hwy 72 McDonald's. Deputy made contact with the victim. The victim stated that his fiance Cheryl Ballard had taken his newly bought 2007 silver Dodge Nitro without his consent and driven off from their cabin at KOA Campground at Murray's Chapel Rd in Sweetwater. Deputy took the vehicle information and told the victim he would be doing a vehicle theft report and that the vehicle would be entered into NCIC as stolen. At approximately 0130 while Deputy was doing the report, he was notified by dispatch that the victim had gone back to his campsite and found both his vehicle and the suspect, Cheryl Ballard, at the cabin. Upon arrival at 0205, Deputy made contact with the victim at the entrance to the campground. He identified the vehicle that had been taken, and Deputy confirmed via temporary registration in the vehicle that it belonged to the victim. Deputy then made contact with the suspect. Both the suspect and the victim stated on body cam that at or about 2200, they had been arguing over the suspect/Cheryl Ballard getting a job and not being able to watch the victim's children. The victim became angry and grabbed the suspect's phone from the bed, smashing it. The suspect then punched the victim in the face. The victim attempted to flee, striking the suspect's dog in the process, and the suspect continued to hit him in the face. The suspect blocked the door with her body as she continued to hit the victim screening is conducted for those arriving from, or with recent presence in, China (excluding the Special Administrative Regions of Hong Kong and Macau), Iran, the Schengen region of Europe, the United Kingdom (excluding overseas territories outside of Europe), Ireland, and Brazil.

We now have a better understanding of COVID-19 transmission that indicates symptom-based screening has limited effectiveness because people with COVID-19 may have no symptoms or fever at the time of screening, or only mild symptoms. Transmission of the virus may occur from passengers who have no symptoms or who have not yet developed symptoms of infection. Therefore, CDC is shifting its strategy and prioritizing other public health measures to reduce the risk of travel-related disease transmission.

USG resources will instead be dedicated to more effective mitigation efforts that focus on the individual passenger, including: pre-departure, in-flight, and post-arrival health education for passengers; robust illness response at airports; voluntary collection of contact information from passengers using electronic means as proposed by some airlines to avoid long lines, crowding and delays associated with manual data collection; potential testing to reduce the risk of travel-related transmission of the virus that causes COVID-19 and movement of the virus from one location to another; country-specific risk assessments to assist passengers in making informed decisions about travel-related risk; enhancing training and education of partners in the transportation sector and at United States ports of entry to ensure recognition of illness and immediate notification to CDC; and post-arrival passenger recommendations for self-monitoring and precautions to protect others, with enhanced precautions, including staying home to the extent possible for 14 days for people arriving from high-risk destinations.

By refocusing our mitigation efforts on individual passenger risk throughout the air travel journey, the USG can most effectively protect the health of the American public. U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

 CDC works 24/7 protecting America's health, safety and security. Whether disease start at home or abroad, are curable or preventable, chronic or acute, or from human activity or deliberate attack, CDC responds to America's most pressing health threats. CDC is headquartered in Atlanta and has experts located throughout the United States and the world.

In addition to the school safety grants announced today, the COPS Office School Safety Working Group, which is composed of representatives from eight national law enforcement organizations, has identified 10 essential actions that can be taken by schools, school districts, and law enforcement agencies to help prevent critical incidents involving the loss of life or injuries in our nation's schools and to respond rapidly and effectively when incidents do occur. The Ten Essential Actions to Improve School Safety are applicable to school shootings as well as to other areas of school safety, including natural disasters and traumatic events such as student suicide. Adopting policies and practices based on the recommendations in this publication can help make school communities safer and save lives.

The COPS Office is the federal component of the Department of Justice responsible for advancing community policing nationwide. Since 1994, the COPS Office has invested more than $14 billion to advance community policing, including grants awarded to more than 13,000 state, local and tribal law enforcement agencies to fund the hiring and redeployment of more than 134,000 officers and provide a variety of knowledge resource products including publications, training and technical assistance.

Both victim and suspect admitted that they have had multiple physical disputes in the past, and that they were going through couple's counseling together. Based on the marks on both individuals and the stories from same, Deputy determined Cheryl Ballard to be the primary aggressor and arrested her for Domestic Violence.

The victim provided a written statement. All occurred in Loudon County, TN.
