More than 3 Million Youth Reported Using a Tobacco Product in 2022

Disparities in tobacco product use persist among U.S. middle and high school students

A study released today from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) found that 3.08 million (11.3%) U.S. middle and high school students reported current (past 30-day) use of any tobacco product in 2022, which includes 2.51 million (16.5%) high school students and 530,000 (4.5%) middle school students.

The study assessed eight commercial tobacco products. E-cigarettes—for the ninth consecutive year—were the most commonly used tobacco product among all students (2.55 million), followed by cigars (500,000), cigarettes (440,000), smokeless tobacco (330,000), hookah (290,000), nicotine pouches (280,000), heated tobacco products (260,000), and pipe tobacco (150,000). The term “tobacco product” as used in this report

Investigation Thwarts Brazen Bribery Scheme Businessman Paid for Elected Official’s Divorce in Exchange for Lucrative Contracts

Three people—an attorney, an elected official, and a businessman—engaged in an outrageous corruption scheme that involved paying for an elected official’s divorce. But an FBI investigation thwarted their efforts.

Agents opened a case in 2014 after receiving a lead. Established sources reported large-scale corruption involving the garbage, construction, and engineering industries in the suburbs north of Detroit. The case began there, where public official Dean Reynolds was caught extorting people and selling his votes.

“We were able to intercept him in real time accepting and demanding bribes,” said Special Agent Robert Beeckman, who investigated this case out of the FBI’s Detroit Field Office. Agents also saw Reynolds accepting a cash delivery. As a local legislator in the 10th largest Michigan municipality, Reynolds used his connections for capital gain.

Reynolds made sure to have connections in the garbage industry, one of the township’s biggest expenses. On the other end of several phone calls was Chuck Rizzo, president of Rizzo Environmental Services, Inc. Rizzo’s company had one of the largest and most lucrative garbage businesses in Southeast Michigan. He offered Reynolds bribes to secure favorable contracts. He spoke specifically

Agg. Assault

William Risley, 29, River Road West Loudon, was charged with, Aggravated Assault, DUI, Resisting Arrest x2, Assault x3, and Misuse of 911 Emergency System.

Officer B. Everett LPD, was dispatched to Lighthouse Blvd, regarding a possible domestic assault between father and son. Upon arrival Officer Everett and Officer B. Cogdill were approached by the victim who was bleeding from his face. The victim stated that his son, Mr. William Brian Risley had assaulted him and he was still inside the residence. Everett and Officer Cogdill entered through the side garage door and standing in the doorway entering the house itself was Mr. Brian Risley. Mr. Risley was holding a knife and had blood covering both hands and blood on his pants and shirt. Both Everett and Officer Cogdill pleaded with Mr. Risley to drop the knife and he refused. Mr. Risley seemed to be under the influence of some sort of narcotic due to his state of actions, talking out of his head, his fast paced movements from side to side, and refusing all commands from both Everett and Officer Cogdill. Mr. Risley started to walk towards us with the knife and Officer deployed his taser which had no effect on Mr. Risley. Risley then walked further into the house and was in the kitchen. At this time it sounded like Mr. Risley was trying to hurt himself from the noises he was making. Myself and Officer Cogdill entered into the kitchen where we were met by other Law Enforcement personel. We were able to see that he wasn't hurting himself. we continued to try and get Mr. Risley to drop the knife, he still refused. Officer Cogdill deployed his taser and it was also unsuccessful. After a third attempt Deputy Pesterfield deployed his taser and we were able to get a good connection. We approached Mr. Risley and were able to pry the knife from his hand and placed him under arrest. EMS was on scene and were able to check Mr. Risley for further injuries. Mr. Risley was tranported to UT Hospital via Officer Bruce Padgett. Statements were taken by both the victim and a witness. This did occur in Loudon City TN.

Hit and run

Peter Lamb, 73, Loudon Road Loudon, was charged with DUI, and Leaving the Scene of Accident Property Damage.

Officer Law LCPD, responded to a Hit and Run at Fort Loudoun Medical Center Drive (Chilis). Upon arrival Officer met with "Victim", stated he was leaving Chilis when he observed his Black Ford F-250 had when struck in the bumper by an unknown white vehicle. Officer then made contact with witness #1, who stated he was outside smoking when he heard a loud bang. Witness stated he observed a White Mercury or White Crown vehicle run into the back of a Black F-250 then exited the parking lot. Officer then spoked to witness #2, who stated he was waiting to park in the parking lot when he observed a White

Sedan strike a Black Ford F-250 and appear to cause severe damage to the White Sedan's passenger side. Officer A. Lee located a White Mercury M75 bearing TN Registration 447-BGRC with severe damage to its passenger side bumper. Officer Lee stated when the driver Peter Lamb, had the strong odor of alcoholic beverage omitting from his persons, Mr. Lamb stated to Officer Lee that he had been at Chilis and had one beer prior to his encounter with Officer Lee. Officer Lee then performed HGN on Mr. Lamb, Officer Lee stated Mr. Lamb did perform poorly. Officer Law, then arrived on scene, while Officer was conducting his investigation, Officer observed Mr. Lamb to have blood shot watery eyes, slurred speech, and a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage omitting from his persons. Due to Mr. Lamb's intoxication, he would not be able to perform the rest of SFST safely. Due to the totality of the circumstances, Mr. Lamb was placed under arrest and transported to the Fort Loudoun Medical Center for a blood draw. Mr. Lamb was then transported to the Loudon County Jail without incident. All the above occurred in Lenoir City, TN.

refers to commercial tobacco products and not to sacred and traditional use of tobacco by some American Indian communities.

Among all race and ethnicity groups, non-Hispanic American Indian or Alaska Native students had the highest percentage of any tobacco product use (13.5%), while non-Hispanic White students reported the highest percentage of e-cigarette use (11.0%). Approximately one million youth reported using any combustible tobacco product; non-Hispanic Black students reported the highest percentage of combustible tobacco product use (5.7%), including cigar use (3.3%).

Additional groups with a higher percentage of tobacco product use were those reporting grades of mostly Fs (27.2%); those reporting severe symptoms of psychological distress (18.3%); those who identified as transgender (16.6%) or as lesbian, gay, or bisexual (16.0%); and those with low family affluence (12.5%).

“Commercial tobacco product use continues to threaten the health of our nation’s youth, and disparities in youth tobacco product use persist,” said Deirdre Lawrence Kittner, Ph.D., M.P.H., director of CDC’s Office on Smoking and Health. “By addressing the factors that lead to youth tobacco product use and helping youth to quit, we can give our nation’s young people the best opportunity to live their healthiest lives.”

This study’s findings, published in Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, were based on data from the 2022 National Youth Tobacco Survey (NYTS). NYTS, a cross-sectional, self-administered survey of U.S. middle (grades 6–8) and high (grades 9–12) school students, was administered January 18–May 31, 2022. Changes in methodology limit the ability to compare estimates from 2022 with those from prior years.

“It’s clear we’ve made commendable progress in reducing cigarette smoking among our nation’s youth. However, with an ever-changing tobacco product landscape, there’s still more work to be done,” said Brian

King, Ph.D., M.P.H., director of the FDA’s Center for Tobacco Products. “We must continue to tackle all forms of tobacco product use among youth, including meaningfully addressing the notable disparities that continue to persist.”

Factors influencing youth tobacco product use

Many factors contribute to youth tobacco product use, including flavors, marketing, and misperceptions of harm. Most youth who use tobacco products, including e-cigarettes, want to quit.

This study’s findings suggest continuing disparities in tobacco product use, which to a certain extent could be attributed to greater exposure to tobacco promotion and advertising and greater tobacco retail outlet density in racial and ethnic minority communities, among other systemic factors. Those other factors include social determinants of health, which are conditions in the places where people live, learn, work, and play that affect a wide range of health and quality-of-life risks about securing Reynold's vote on an $18 million contract.

In exchange for the lucrative contract, Rizzo paid Reynolds' divorce expenses.

Rizzo asked his lawyer Jay A. Schwartz to provide a variety of services, including advice about how to commit bribery and divorce counsel for Reynolds. Schwartz agreed. A subpoena of his billing software confirmed that $40,000 worth of legal services were provided for free.

As the divorce went on, Reynolds fought a custody battle that required a psychological evaluation. Another wiretap caught Schwartz proposing that a third party could pay for it; however, that person needed to have one very crucial ability.

"[Schwartz] talked about finding a third party who could hold up on the witness stand if ever questioned under oath about where the money came from. You have an attorney, an officer of the court, proposing a bribery scheme with a view towards perjury if necessary... hiding it from a judge," Beeckman said. Schwartz swindled an unsuspecting family friend into the scheme.

Schwartz was sentenced to 27 months in prison and fined $250,000. Rizzo was sentenced to 66 months in 2018. In 2019, Reynolds was sentenced to 17 years in prison. A total of 22 people were indicted in the scheme.

The FBI prioritizes these cases because systemic corruption can cause a domino effect leading to general mistrust of authority.

"There are places in the world that have given up. They have corruption at such a level that their governmental systems have completely failed," Beeckman said. "The public there has no confidence in the people who run their country. We're not there in this country, and we have no intention of getting there."

Bribery is a federal crime. If you suspect it, contact the FBI.

A common worry is that if you submit a tip, you will be the sole cause of an open investigation about a public official.

This is not accurate. Beeckman confirmed that a public corruption case cannot be opened based on a single source.

"No detail is too small. You could be the person who supplies the last bit of information that we need—the puzzle piece that makes it all make sense," he said.

and outcomes.

There are, however, ongoing efforts at the national, state, and local levels to help reduce youth tobacco product use, such as enforcing the federal minimum age of sale of 21 years for all tobacco product types; FDA's ongoing actions against sales of unauthorized e-cigarettes; state and community restrictions on the sale of flavored tobacco products; efforts to raise the price and prohibit public indoor use of tobacco products; media campaigns and other education efforts that warn about the dangers of tobacco product use.

What more can be done?

Commercial tobacco product use remains the leading cause of preventable disease, disability, and death in the United States. Nearly all tobacco product use begins during youth and young adulthood.

Youth use of tobacco products—in any form—is unsafe. Such products contain nicotine, which is highly addictive and can harm the developing adolescent brain. Using nicotine during adolescence might also increase risk for future addiction to other drugs.

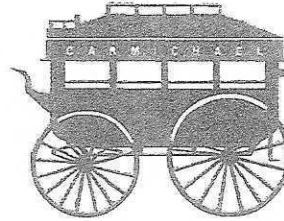

Everyone can help reduce youth product tobacco use. Parents, educators, and healthcare providers can help youth recognize and avoid the dangers of tobacco product use, and support and encourage youth who use tobacco products to quit. Furthermore, it is imperative to address policy and environmental factors that are driving tobacco-related disparities.

Horoscopes

aware of it. The thing that will be obvious is your reaction to the situation when this hidden event suddenly comes to light. A passionate explosion is likely, due to people's heightened emotional state. Try to work with this energy instead of against it. Capricorn 12/22-01/19

It could be that close friends or family members are in sharp disagreement regarding a certain issue, Capricorn. Try not to be too distressed by divisions among the people you love. Some may want you to take sides and express yourself fully on the situation. You may feel as if you're damned if you do and damned if you don't. Try your best to compromise. Aquarius 1/20-2/18

There is a great deal of emotion and drive to the day, just the way you like it, Aquarius. Make sure you don't get stuck with the short end of the stick as the day comes to a close. An honest fight or debate is one thing, but a harsh manipulation of people is another. Make sure you're involved in the former and not the latter. Pisces 2/19-3/20

You're going to be a valuable asset to others today because of your rational mind and ability to think things through clearly. The stubborn forces around you aren't going to bend, but you have the unique ability to do so. Do your best to avoid fights, even though it will be tempting for you and others to want to let off some steam.

Aries 3/21-4/19

In your attempts to always be the nice, helpful one, Aries, you might find that you're compromising some of your values. Know that balance and harmony are wonderful things, but they aren't always worth the price of self-sacrifice. Don't be someone you aren't just to maintain the peace. Your tolerance is apt to be tested today. Don't feel bad if you suddenly feel like fighting. Taurus 4/20-5/20

Actions could be quick and intense today, Taurus. Things may hit you like lightning, so be prepared for just about anything. Mentally stabilize yourself before interacting with others. Dress to demonstrate your power. You're a force to be reckoned with, not one to be stepped on. Violent emotions are apt to emerge. Don't fight the urge to release any anger you feel. Direct it appropriately. Gemini 5/21-6/20

Your playful attitude is apt to be opposed by someone who refuses to see things your way, Gemini. Walk away from those who aren't committed to helping the situation. It could be that there are people who purposefully try to sabotage your plans. You're too smart to fall into this trap. Prove to others that even though you may be happy, it doesn't mean you're gullible. Cancer 6/21-7/22

Today may be one of those days in which you're trying to paint a large area, but you only have a small brush. Your strokes are careful and calculated. You're doing a neat and precise job, but you're also doing things the hard way. Go easy on yourself and get a large brush. Make your strokes gigantic so you can cover more area with less effort. Leo 7/23-8/22

You may be barking up the wrong tree today, Leo. Before you waste all your energy on your podium proclaiming your thoughts to the world, it would behoove you to stop, look around, and notice your audience. How are they reacting to your tirade? Are people walking away or are they cheering? Perhaps you need to let someone else have a turn at the microphone. Virgo 8/23-9/22

In an attempt to merge with infinity, you might overlook some basic life principles, Virgo. Be careful about being seduced by those who want you to be involved in their drama. You might willingly acquiesce at first. You may not even realize how deep a hole you've dug until it's too late. Make sure you haven't alienated everyone so that there's still someone left to dig you out. Libra 9/23-10/22

Feel free to stand up for yourself, a cause, or another person today, even if you know it will cause tension among the others around you. A heated argument is likely to ensue, and it wouldn't be surprising if you were the catalyst. Passionate debates are right up your alley, so use this as an opportunity to demonstrate your courage and strength in what you believe. Scorpio 10/23-11/21

Your mind is apt to be fixed on one thing today, Scorpio, and you won't rest until you've obtained it. Perhaps it's a physical place you're trying to get to, a new gadget that you want to own, or a person you'd like to get to know better. Don't be surprised if you have to put up a bit of a fight in order to accomplish this goal, whatever it may be.
