Clay County Highway Superintendent Pumped 16,200 Gallons of Fuel Into His Truck

Jason Browning Charged with Theft and Official Misconduct

An investigation by the Tennessee Comptroller's Office has resulted in the indictment of Jason Browning, the elected Clay County Highway Superintendent.

Investigators determined that Browning misappropriated at least $56,971.60 in 16,200 gallons of department-purchased diesel fuel for his personal transportation business.

Browning admitted that he used an estimated 150 gallons of department fuel each week from July 2021 through July 2023, to fuel his personal 2007 Peterbilt 379 semi-truck. Browning used the truck as part of his private trucking business, Browning Trucking. He sold the 2007 Peterbilt in July 2023.

Browning's misappropriation resulted in the department operating on and having less fuel on reserve than believed by department employees. His actions put the department at risk of having insufficient fuel supplies in case of a natural disaster or large project.

Based upon this investigation, in September 2024, Jason Earl Browning was indicted by the Clay County Grand Jury on one count of theft over $10,000 and three counts of official misconduct.

The Tennessee District Attorneys General Conference is serving as Pro Tem in this matter.

"The Clay County Highway Department should maintain inventory see Misconduct pg. 5

Deputy Reagan LCSO, observed a maroon Honda Ridgeline (BRX7640) on Shaw Ferry Road traveling towards Creekwood Park Blvd. The deputy observed this vehicle to have the passenger side brake light out. The deputy conducted a traffic stop at Shaw Ferry Rd.

and Creekwood Park Blvd. Upon approaching the vehicle, the driver appeared to be very nervous and quick to answer questions. His hands were shaky, and he appeared to be sweating. While collecting vehicle information and driver's information, the deputy identified the driver as Tyler Davidson (Offender). The deputy also asked if there was anything inside the vehicle that he should know about; he quickly said no and stated that the deputy could search the vehicle. At that time, he stated that he had previous trouble with driving on a suspended license but has since gotten his license fixed. The deputy then requested a records and warrants check through Dispatch. Deputy Willis arrived on scene as he approached the vehicle again. The deputy had Davidson step out of the vehicle and confirmed consent to search the vehicle. During the search, the deputy located a tan Crown Royal bag in the back pocket of the passenger seat. Inside the tan bag was a glass pipe with suspected methamphetamine residue and a clear plastic container with a white, crystal-like substance, believed to be methamphetamine. A field weight of the substance was 5.2g. At that time, the deputy took Davidson into custody and read him Miranda. He stated that he understood his rights and began answering questions. He stated that he gave a friend a ride approximately 2 hours prior to the traffic stop. He then stated that the same friend texted him after he dropped him off, stating that he left "something" in his truck. The deputy then escorted Davidson to the rear of his vehicle, and while searching his person, he became flush and passed out. The deputy attempted to catch him before he fell but was unsuccessful. Shortly after, he became alert and speaking freely. EMS arrived on scene and checked his vitals. Mr. Davidson was cleared by EMS, and the deputy transported him to the Loudon County Jail. Davidson's mother arrived on scene and took possession of the truck. This did happen in Loudon County, TN.
